Fred Warder is a general litigator and Chair of the Firm's Law Firm Defense group. Fred's practice covers the broad spectrum of general commercial litigation, and has focused on defending law firms and lawyers against malpractice and related claims and on prosecuting and defending intellectual property and consumer fraud disputes. In the law firm defense arena, he has represented clients ranging from international firms to solo practitioners accused of malpractice, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, disciplinary violations and related claims. In the intellectual property arena, Fred has prosecuted and defended false advertising, trademark and consumer fraud claims between competitors and in class actions for a wide variety of products and services. He appears frequently in federal and state courts on behalf of clients, has served as a mediator in partnership disputes, and speaks frequently at bar association, CLE and industry events. Fred serves as the Firm's co-General Counsel.
